MARKER COMMENT SUMMARY

Section	Item	Comment
A1	Strengths	One correction is fully successful, and several others clearly aim at a more professional sentence form.
	Main Weaknesses	Residual editing errors remain in phrases such as found it to be added more information , confirm me if , and I would appreciate you if .
	Priority for Improvement	Improve sentence-level correction accuracy and professional phrasing.

Section	Item	Comment
A2	Strengths	All three responses directly answer the prompt, and Attached is a corrected version of a notification is especially strong.
	Main Weaknesses	Short-response wording is sometimes repetitive or slightly awkward, for example explain the meaning and make it clear .
	Priority for Improvement	Practice concise but fully polished administrative micro-writing.

Section	Item	Comment
B1	Strengths	The response includes purpose, background, one specific procedural question, and a deadline in a recognisable email shape.
	Main Weaknesses	It is underlength and linguistically uneven, with examples such as Applicant need to submit document A and Our question to EPO procedure .
	Priority for Improvement	Develop fuller task coverage and improve grammatical control in professional emails.

Section	Item	Comment
B2	Strengths	The explanation covers the new step, the reason, and the examiner's action in a clear basic order.
	Main Weaknesses	Frequent grammar and spelling problems weaken accuracy, including bellow , which prove , and speicied term ; the response is also substantially underlength.
	Priority for Improvement	Strengthen sentence control in longer procedural explanations.

Section	Item	Comment
C	Strengths	The opening shows some awareness of professional framing in I've reviewed your draft .
	Main Weaknesses	The response is incomplete and stops at I couldn't , so it does not demonstrate meaningful rewriting or editing skill.
	Priority for Improvement	Complete full revision tasks and practice restructuring a weak source text, not just opening it.

SECTION A1 SCORING TABLE (/10)

5 questions x 2 points each

Item	Score	Marker Notes
A1-1	1/2	Partly corrected. I've checked the contents and found it to be added more information still contains major structure problems, so the sentence is not fully corrected for a controlled editing task.
A1-2	2/2	Fully acceptable. The attached file is not the same version as we discussed in the last meeting is clear, grammatical, and professionally appropriate.
A1-3	1/2	Partly corrected, but Please confirm me if is still unnatural and not fully professional in administrative English.
A1-4	1/2	Meaning is clear, but it seems difficult within today and we have a lot of tasks remain awkward for a correction item that should produce a polished sentence.
A1-5	0/2	Not correctly revised. Major wording problems remain in I would appreciate you if and check again from the points below .
A1 subtotal	5/10	One fully successful correction, three partial corrections, and one unsuccessful correction.

SECTION A2 SCORING TABLE (/15)

3 questions x 5 points each

Item	Score	Marker Notes
A2-1	4/5	Strong concise response. We need additional two days to prepare the response is clear and fit for purpose, though article use is still slightly weak.
A2-2	4/5	Clear and professionally usable. There seems to be a contradiction in the international guideline directly addresses the task, although explain the meaning and make it clear is somewhat repetitive.
A2-3	5/5	Fully appropriate short-form response. Attached is a corrected version of a notification is concise, accurate, and professionally suitable.
A2 subtotal	13/15	Stronger than the A1 correction work; all three responses complete the task clearly and professionally enough for short administrative messages.

SECTION B1 SCORING TABLE (/25)

Category	Score	Marker Notes
Accuracy	3/5	Meaning is generally clear, but there are noticeable grammar and wording problems such as Applicant need to submit document A , Our question to EPO procedure , and until the end of of this month .

Category	Score	Marker Notes
Organisation	3/5	The response has a workable sequence: purpose, background, question, and deadline. However, the development is thin and the transitions are basic, so the email reads more like a compressed note than a fully developed international office email.
Professional Tone	3/5	Tone is generally appropriate and not casual. Phrases such as We would appreciate if you could answer show the intended register, but the question is phrased awkwardly and the overall email lacks polish.
Task Achievement	3/5	The student includes the main purpose, the procedural issue, a specific question, and a deadline. However, the response is only about 66 words against the required 120-160 , so the task is only partially achieved under the marking guide.
Revision & Editing Skills	3/5	There is evidence of deliberate written shaping: the response is complete, framed as an email, and not just note fragments. However, sentence control remains uneven, especially in According to International Patent Cooperation Treaty, we need to align the procedure to submit documents.

Section B1 subtotal: 15 / 25

SECTION B2 SCORING TABLE (/25)

Category	Score	Marker Notes
Accuracy	2/5	Frequent grammar and wording errors reduce professional control, including which is bellow, a document which prove his/her nationality, and within a speicied term.
Organisation	3/5	The explanation follows a clear basic structure: new step, reason, and staff action. The reader can follow the message, even though sentence-level control is weak.
Professional Tone	3/5	Tone is generally suitable for an internal administrative explanation. The language is plain and error-heavy, but it is not casual or inappropriate.
Task Achievement	3/5	The key content points are present: the added step, the reason for it, and what the examiner should do. However, the response is only about 64 words against the required 100-130 , so it cannot score above 3 for task achievement under the guide.
Revision & Editing Skills	2/5	Some deliberate shaping is visible, but the writing remains rough. Repetition and error patterns suggest limited self-editing control in a longer explanation task.

Section B2 subtotal: 13 / 25

SECTION C SCORING TABLE (/25)

Category	Score	Marker Notes
Accuracy	1/5	The response is too incomplete to demonstrate reliable control. Even in the opening, found some parts still remained unclear is not fully accurate or natural.
Organisation	1/5	No meaningful rewritten structure is visible because the response stops after the opening line and does not develop the message.
Professional Tone	2/5	The opening is broadly professional in intent: Dear colleague, I've reviewed your draft.... However, the response is too short to show sustained control of tone.
Task Achievement	1/5	The task is not completed. The answer stops at I couldn't , at about 15 words, so it does not actually rewrite the source email in a clear, improved form.
Revision & Editing Skills	1/5	There is almost no evidence of revision skill beyond a short opening setup. The student does not show the structural and linguistic improvement required in Section C.

Section C subtotal: 6 / 25
